THE WASHOE LAKE ROW.

The Hunters and Fishermen in Arms.

The obstructing of Washoe Lake by the ranchers has caused a general howl to go up all over three counties.

The parties who have been in the habit of hunting and fishing there have banded together, taken legal advice and propose to make it warm for anyone who "obstructs the meander."

Mrs. Elizabeth Bryan has agreed to construct her fence in such a way that parties can pass through by means of a gate, and yesterday twenty residents of this city paid a dollar apiece to furnish the material for the fence.

James Arthur, however, is obdurate, and refuses to furnish a gate, and suit will be begun against him for violating the law regarding public highways.

A general row is in prospect.

Carson Mining News.

In the Chedick claim a change of formation was encountered yesterday the work began to show some silver.

By pounding up the rock and horning free gold was obtained. The owners are very sanguine as the ledge is now three feet wide and widening as depth is made.

In the Dan De Quill claim located by Joseph Rayercraft, the ledge is four feet wide and gives $60 per ton. Every batch of rock that has been tried shows free gold.

Work on the North Carson tunnel still progresses.

Yesterday Jack Furlong and some of his friends raised $500 to send men into Mason Valley to work mines discovered there last Fall.

Ever day now prospectors are starting out into the hill about Carson hunting ledges with more or less success.

U. S. Court.

The case of Mathews and Woods vs. ex-Senator Joseph Williams was called in the U. S. District Court yesterday.

The suit is for $55,000. The plaintiff asked for a continuance which was finally granted after paying the defendant $250 and his expenses for traveling from Nye County.

Ex-Gov. Ebbart of New Jersey Cheney of Eureka and Torreyson of this city represent the plaintiff. Gen. Clarke and Judge Healy of this city the defendant.

FIGHTING FOR SILVER.

Stewart Scores the Trickery of the Gold Bugs.

During Stewart's campaign he was continually charged with helping to demonetize silver and it was claimed that if he went to the Senate he would help the gold bugs.

The Silver State says:

Senator Stewart arraigned Sherman for his connection with the demonetization act and also for being the author of the act of March 1869, which made the bonds payable in coin, not in greenbacks, with which the soldiers were paid, and which those who supplied the armies were compelled to receive. He denounced as atrocious and insulting the argument used by the bond-holding aristocracy that the fall in silver as compared with gold was caused by an over production of the former metal, when the proof is overwhelming that silver did not decline in value until it was excluded from the mints of United States and Europe, although its production, as compared with that of gold, was less when the two metals parted in 1876 than at many former periods. He contended that the United States should have an independent financial policy, though the representatives of the bond-holders say that it is impossible, as the restoration of silver to its place as money by the United States alone would overwhelm us with an avalanche of silver. He answered that argument by saying that before the avalanche can come there must be a source of supply some where to produce it, and as there is no accumulation of silver in either Europe or America, and no silver ever comes from Asia, there is no accumulation of bullion to produce the avalanche.

Senator Stewart asserted that he was never knowingly a party to the demonetization of silver, avowed that he voted for the bill upon the faith of the statements of the Chairman of the Committee on Finance (Sherman) and the active part which he is taking in the endeavor to restore silver to its former standard, dispels all doubts that may have existed in the minds of Nevada on that subject.

The above from a Democratic paper is especially pleasing to the APPEAL for it calls to mind a prediction made by the APPEAL during the campaign to the effect that before Stewart had been three months in the Senate his villifiers would be acknowledging their mistake.

THE WASHOE WAY.

Curious Methods of Supporting the Republican Ticket.

The Reno Journal is crying again because its demand for six additional delegates to the State Convention was not allowed by the Central Committee. It based its claim on the Congressional vote, and carefully omitted to call for the records on the rest of the ticket.

Washoe claims that it polled nearly 800 votes for the Congressional nominee. This being the case, why did it not also elect the Legislative and county ticket?

The Washoe Republicans, so called, simply swapped the Legislative and county ticket for Woodburn, Stevenson, and the Fusion ticket which the sore-heads and bolters fixed up to beat Stewart with.

The Washoe Republicans have a queer knack of selecting just such portions of the ticket as suits them and repudiating the balance. This method of procedure is well understood by the members of the Central Committee, and the APPEAL would advise Washoe to come back into the Republican camp with a clean score before it asks for an additional apportionment of delegates.

The Campbell Case Reversed.

Yesterday the District Court reversed the Campbell case and ordered a new trial, basing its grounds on the point raised by Mr. Bartine in his argument before the Supreme Court, that the story told by the girl to Ulrick and Crisler should not have been admitted, it being hearsay evidence. The case for Campbell was conducted by Edwards, Bartine and Torreyson.

Card From Mr. Kitzmeyer.

EDITOR APPEAL:—I wish to explain a little trouble which has been raised by my building a fence out in Telegraph street. The obstruction caused the City Marshal to appear, and considerable interest was manifested as to whether the Marshal would order it taken down, but he did not, as I had the consent of that officer before I started in. He simply told me that there was a protest, or some kicking. I could not find out who was kicking but I lay it all to my neighbor, E. R. Elrod, and as it comes from him I feel it advisable to inform my fellow citizens that they shall not form any opinion until they hear my side, and for that I ask the indulgence of the editor of the APPEAL.

As I am about to build a dwelling for my family between Elrod and my store, the room I require takes up every foot I own there, but I consented to stay two feet away from the line with my wall, which is entirely lost to me for the benefit of my neighbor, who still seems unsatisfied, and objects to my using part of the street to build. His feeling seems to be so bitter, that he will stop my building if he can, because he thinks I will build a better house, and his might not look so good close to mine. But to show up my neighbor's selfishness, greed and gall I will publish what he told me when I offered to buy his corner lot after the fire two years ago, when I secured a place for him which he admitted was suitable, but he saw fit not to sell or accommodate me. I told him that if I built again I would not have room enough. I do not complain of his not selling to me, but I do complain of his unreasonable demand to leave him more ground. when he could easily have protected himself when he built his house. Mr. Elrod cannot deny that I gave him fair warning. I told him that I needed a larger house than before. Why, then, did he not go further East with his house if he wanted more room on that side? But he wanted to crowd me close up to the wall and shut out the light from my own basement, that he might have more light. He asked me why I did not make rooms over my store for my family. I said nothing, but after analysing it I thought the proposition contained two-thirds gall, the balance mixed with cheek and selfishness. The fact of the matter is, I have courted the good will of my neighbor Elrod too much and too long. I could not dig a water closet in my yard but that I had to fear his objection, and now because I don't give him all he wants, and the Lord only knows what he does not want, he stoops to this small business of protesting against the temporary fence, partly in the street. The fence is up, and will stay there until I get through building. Submitting the above to the judgment of all fair minded citizens, I am respectfully yours, GEO. W. KITZMEYER.

Another C. P. Collision.

On Monday afternoon another collision occurred between two freight trains between Cisco and Tamarack. There were two engines attached to each train, and all four engines were badly wrecked. A number of cars were blown to atoms and the snow sheds were shattered. John Tickan was instantly killed; R. F. Wooly the engineer on the rear engine, was severely scalded and otherwise injured; Engineer Trincano was badly cut on the head; Brakemen McMaster and Cosgrove and Fireman Hoops and a man from Rocklin, whose name is unknown, are missing.
